COLFAX, North Carolina --- July 15, 2013 --- Jonathan Annas (Co-Owner) of Green Resource and Barrett Ersek (Founder & CEO) of Holganix entered into an agreement whereas Green Resource would be designated as an authorized distributor for Holganix throughout the Carolinas and Georgia.

"As a leading supply chain partner, it is our obligation to thoroughly examine and screen all of the products that we market/sell. Based on our due diligence and independent university testing conducted at North Carolina State University, Penn State University, and Purdue University, we believe this is the best organic offering in the marketplace." according to Jonathan Annas, a principal at Green Resource. "Our philosophy is that it is important to fortify the soil's biology with favorable, indigenous microorganisms to foster an environment that makes plants less prone to damage from insects, weeds, and disease."

Holganix

Founded in 2010, Holganix, a Pennsylvania-based basic manufacturer of niche bio-nutritional soil supplements is helping to change the face of the Green Industry. The company's proprietary organic formula allows golf courses, lawn care companies, and professional landscapers to reduce the amount of traditional fertilizers and herbicides necessary to deliver the healthy green results their customers have come to expect.

The products and ingredients that make up Holganix are guaranteed 100% natural and organic. Holganix contains no animal or human by-products. It's made exclusively of plant-based botanical extracts and products. There are no chemical by-products used in the process of making Holganix.
